Maximise your media resources with ETERE's licence scheme which is not sold based on playlists but on systems.

Cost-effective licence for additional playlist

To retain high business value in a large multichannel system, ETERE is not sold based on the playlist but on the system. If you acquire a single playlist system, you can add a second playlist with only 10% of the price of the second.

An additional licence extension will cover all the capabilities you buy on the first channel, such as media management, transcoding, HSM Automation Main, and Clone. However, the license does not include the device drivers; for example, a second video router needs a second license.
