We are excited to announce a brand new concept for our headquarters in Singapore. Due to expansion plans, we have added new rooms to prepare for the future. In addition, the investment enables the Etere team to have an office room each for a more conducive work environment. The "glasshouse" concept features spacious individual rooms combined with an inclusive environment made possible with the unique design of full glass panels.

The design was conceptualised after receiving positive feedback from the team since the re-opening of its office with a similar concept in Italy last year. In addition, the new Singapore office features a brand new washroom complete with new facilities.

The upgraded infrastructure is able to accommodate a bigger team and more opportunities for collaborations. It serves as the headquarters for future expansion of Etere globally. The global lock-down due to Covid-19 has paved the way for the Etere team to enhance its digitisation strategies worldwide and to chart its expansion plans.

The office upgrade was completed last week and the team has moved in to start the month of August with anticipation for a better quarter ahead to round up 2020. The Etere team will continue its commitment to provide you with service excellence and innovation to enhance your adaptability for the future.
