

NAB Show 2021 was Cancelled, See you at NAB Show 2022!

While the Etere team was all ready for NAB Show 2021, it was announced that the event was cancelled due to safety concerns with the recent increase of Covid cases related to the delta variant of the virus. Nevertheless, Etere is always ready to drive your business.

NABSHOW 2016

Etere was all ready for NAB Show 2021 where Fabio Gattari, Director of Etere, was scheduled to present at the the 75th BEIT Conference. However, due to concerns over the Delta variant of the Covid-19 virus, the show organizers have cancelled NAB Show 2021. While it was a disappointing development, we place the safety of the Etere team and our industry peers at the utmost of our considerations. We understand the NAB Show team's decision and will continue to support future editions of the show.

See you at NAB Show 2022

The Etere team remains committed to reconnect and discuss emerging technologies and industry developments at NAB Show 2022 which is scheduled to be held from April 23-27, 2022. Stay tuned for more updates!

The Show Goes On

With Etere remote solutions, we are always ready to connect with you and drive your business. Reach out to us at info@etere.com if you would like to book a remote meeting or demo with us!

About NAB Show

Each year, thousands of content professionals from all corners of the media, entertainment and technology ecosystem go to NAB Show. It's designed for those striving to drive listeners and engage viewers in larger numbers for greater reach. And it's imagined for those seeking to create uncommon audio and visual experiences. No matter where you fall on the content continuum—from creation to distribution, management to monetization this is where you'll find a renewed path to clarity and confidence that takes your work in bold new directions. <https://nabshow.com/2021/>

