Al Dafrah announces the implementation of a new software release, Etere 32. The new software update helps the satellite television channel based in Dubai amplify system performance, interoperability, and reliability. As part of a free software release, users on a support contract can access Etere 32 new features:

- Full compatibility with Windows 11
- Supports the creation of individual and customizable desktops
- Supports Android apps and remote control for smartphone
- Introduction of Snap Groups: Snap Groups are an inclusive feature in Windows 11 that opens windows saved in Snap Layouts. Users can minimize or maximize them as a group
- Supports the creation of individual and customizable desktops
- AI-Powered Widgets: New widgets in Windows 11 are well-connected to the system with an easy navigation interface
- Enhanced Web GUI with faster speeds and performance

The update also features a new integrated graphics inserter for Etere Nunzio Newsroom that enables content distributors to insert graphics overlay without any external graphics editor.

Helping users stay ahead of technological advancements remains at the heart of Etere's mission. As part of a support package, Etere users gain access to a world of unlimited possibilities and regular free software updates inclusive of enhancements, new features, and security patches.
