Etere, the leading provider of high technology software for broadcasting and media businesses, announced significant new features in the latest release for Etereweb. The Etere Research & Development Team has developed more new features for its web interface.

Etereweb is the famous web interface for all Etere solutions. It gives the possibility to manage all data via web through a powerful, secure and user-friendly interface. Etereweb new interface adopted a gorgeously consistent grey-scale chic.

As a result, Etere asset form and the whole Etereweb experience have been redesigned thus improving user searches and worksheet assignments.

The entire suite of Etere products has had a makeover since we has just released a new skin that will allow users to design their own user-interface. An intuitive Windows-like interface will permit a faster and more powerful performance while still following the intuitive Windows metaphor. The Etere's user interface has been improved and modernized to make the workspace easier to manage thanks to the inclusion of many customization options.

Now, also Etereweb is available with that skin.

New Etereweb is based on .Net Framework 4.0 and Silverlight 4.x (thus making the lowres player available also for Mac); it works on all major operating systems and major browsers including Internet Explorer, Firefox, Google Chrome and Safari.

All above mentioned features have been developed with brilliant accuracy to make the operator's job easy, fast and efficient, a remarkable fact that increases the legendary capabilities of Etere software.
